Kavourotrypes beach is a stunning sandy beach located 72 km south-east of Poligiros, Halkidiki. It is an ideal spot for sunbathing, swimming, and fun-filled days. The clear, shimmering waters and the colorful rocks make it one of the most beautiful beaches in Greece.

However, there is no natural shade and visitors are advised to bring their own umbrellas. The beach was initially a nudist beach, but now public nudity is not allowed. The surrounding trees and rocks add to the beauty of the beach and make it a must-visit destination.
