

The little bay of Agios Pavlos

Lindos St Pauls beach

36.08592895, 28.087698561055

Agios Pavlos (Saint Paul) is a small bay located 48 km south of Rhodes town, close to the ancient acropolis of Lindos. It is said that the bay was named in honour of the white chapel that is situated on the beach and dedicated to Saint Paul, who arrived here in 43 AD to preach Christianity.

The beach is composed of golden sand and pebbles, with sunbeds available for rent, while rocks border the shoreline, allowing visitors to dive into the mesmerisingly turquoise waters. It is widely acknowledged as one of the most beautiful beaches in Rhodes and Greece.

Overview

Purpose: Excursion	Type: Beach	Country: Greece
City: Rhodes

Greek Map